HENDRICK IS A CANDIDATE

For Democratic Nomination
For Governor.

Was Democratic Nominee for
Attorney General in Last Campaign.

Paducah, Aug. 23.—In to-day's issue of the News-Democrat, the formal announcement of Hon. John K. Hendrick appears for the Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky.

Col. Hendrick's name has been connected with the gubernatorial race since the first alignments, but he has issued statement after statement, asking his friends not to insist upon his making the race because of his disinclination to enter again the arena of public life after having withdrawn and devoted himself to his large law practice.

So many letters, telegrams and messages of urgent solicitation have poured in upon him, however, that to-day, when a particularly heavy mail was handed to him, the old warrior could refuse no longer and gave in to his friends, because of their repeated declarations that with him as the candidate of Democracy, the battle necessary to redeem the state, was already half won.

Col. Hendrick has an enviable record throughout Kentucky. In the last campaign he swept opposition from the field in the primary and as a candidate for the office of attorney general he led the Democratic ticket by several thousand votes. For a while it looked as if he would be saved to Democracy from the Republican landslide.

As twice county attorney of Livingston, as state senator, as congressman from the First district, Col. Hendrick has had opportunity that he has made use of in demonstrating his worth and value to the people. He is a man of the broadest gauge and has never been identified with any of the faction that have torn the state asunder. Although he has never identified himself with either side in party fights Col. Hendrick invariably has been called upon by both sides to lend strength to the whole ticket after party differences have been adjusted.

This he has done willingly. Wherever the weakest point was in Democracy's defense, there was placed "Old Honest John," who turned the weakened rampart into a citadel of power and strength.

Col. Hendrick's statement was short, blunt and pithy, characteristic of the man. He said: "I consider that I owe a debt of gratitude to the Democratic party in the state of Kentucky. It has honored me and has stood by me when I have asked office at its hands. Now, that there appears every likelihood of factional fights arising within the party ranks, and friends in every county of the state are begging me to make the race so that I again might use whatever strength I possess to save the state from the misfortune of another Republican administration, I would be more than ingrate to refuse. I have deliberated long over this question, for I know the strenuous campaign before me. I can refuse no longer. I will make the race and make the race to win, and if the people of Kentucky elect me governor I shall be a governor of the whole people and the patron of no clique nor class."

Birthday Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hurt gave a surprise birthday supper at their home near Edwards Schoolhouse August 18th in honor of their little daughter, Dona's fifth birthday. The school being invited their teacher Mack Martin dismissed at 2 o'clock p. m. and marched from the schoolhouse to her home after which various games were played. At five o'clock the guests were invited into a nicely decorated dining room in which a delicious supper was served, consisting of cream, lemonade, cakes, candies and fruits.

Those present were: Mack Martin, Addie Ford, Cordie Ford, Marie Hurt, Paris Bryant, Katie Hurt, Zula Webster, Dona Hurt, Master, Robert Aubrey, Wavie Dabney, Jessie Dabney, John, Jennie and Frank Volles, Robert

Webster, Sampson Nix Clovis Lynch, Jessie Hines, Walter Ford, Mrs. John Lynch, Dona Martin, Flora Ashford.

All present reported a good time and was sorry when the time came for going home.

MACK AND DONA.

Acton-White.

Mr. W. F. Acton, Sulphur Springs, and Mrs. Emma White, Friedland, were married Sunday, August 21, at 10 a. m. at the residence of Mr. G. J. Christian, Friedland. Rev. G. H. Lawrence, Beaver Dam, pastor of the bride's home church officiated. After the ceremony the bridal party attended church at Cane Run, afterwards accompanied by a number of relatives and friends they retired to Mr. Acton's beautiful home near Sulphur Springs, where an elegant dinner was served. Mr. Acton is one of Ohio County's best and most prominent farmers, a gentleman of intelligence and influence, while the bride is a lady of beauty, culture and accomplishment. They have a large circle of friends who join in wishing them all the happiness the future may have in store for them.

REPUBLICANS TO RULE CONGRESS.

Representative McKinley Says
Indications Point to Success of Party.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Congressman W. B. McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, visited Western headquarters here to-day, and issued his first statement regarding the campaign. President Taft's campaign letter mailed yesterday had not arrived. It is probable that it will not be made public until early next month. In his statement Mr. McKinley said:

"We have canvassed the situation in various States and see no reason to change the opinion that the Republicans will control the next House of Representatives by a good working majority. My Democratic friends are indulging themselves in their usual pre-election claims. "The Republican party will make no apology for its records. The new tariff law surprised all in producing the two results expected of a good tariff law, namely, increased revenue and prosperity. The Democrats have failed miserably in their effort to attribute the high cost of living, a world-wide condition, the tariff. Prices are as high in free-trade England and elsewhere abroad as in this country.

"I consider that President Taft is growing stronger daily in the faith of the American people in his sincerity in working out his own and the Roosevelt policies."

Death of J. C. Park.

After a lingering illness extending over several years, Mr. Joseph Columbus Park died at the home of his brother, J. C. Park on No Creek, last Tuesday evening. His funeral was conducted at Mt. Herman church by Rev. Crane, of the M. E. church, Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock after which the interment took place in the cemetery at that place. Mr. Park was for many years a consistent member of the M. E. church at Washington, where he formerly lived. For many years he was a prominent school teacher of Ohio county and was well and favorably known in every part of the county. His wife who was Miss Sue King died four or five years ago. He is survived by one brother and three sisters, the only children living of a large family. His funeral was largely attended by his many friends and relatives and he will be greatly missed from the walks of life in his community.

CUSTER SUICIDE THEORY ADVANCED.

Story That He Killed Himself
Rather Than be Made Prisoner.

Viraylia, N. M., August 21.—Robert Jackson, of Costilla, Taos county, N. M. offers a startling addition to history in the statement that Gen. George A. Custer, the hero of Custer's massacre, long believed to have been killed and scalped by the Sioux on the battlefield, was not murdered by the Indians, but died as the result of a gunshot wound inflicted by his own hand, rather than be taken prisoner.

Jackson was for nine and a half years a scout and guide for the United States soldiers, his service beginning in 1874 and ending in 1883. Jackson served under Gen. Otis, Gen. Reno, Col. Bentine, Gen. Miles, Gen. Custer and Gen. Hazen.

At the time of the battle in which Custer met his death Jackson was serving in the Sixth United States Infantry, carrying dispatches to Gen. Otis, then in command of the Twenty-second Infantry. Jackson was with the first company to reach the battlefield after the massacre and gives in detail the scene as it presented itself to him. Jackson says that an examination of Custer's body showed that the wound which caused his death was fired at close range, the powder burns indicating plainly that the pistol was held against the head. Jackson was commanded by Gen. Reno to talk with the Indians after they had been subdued by the United States troops in the hopes of finding out how Custer was killed. The Indians told Jackson that Gen. Custer was the last man to fall in battle.

They wanted to take him alive, believing that with him as a prisoner they could force the government to terms. Realizing this fact, Jackson says the Indians told him that Custer placed a gun to his head and fired. According to Jackson the Indians all loved Custer and called him "The Long-Haired Chief."

Jackson is a picturesque character and although he was in long and dangerous service, is not receiving a pension from the government because he was not a regularly enlisted soldier. Friends in Taos county are interesting themselves in his behalf and hope to receive aid for him from the government to compensate him for valuable services rendered.

Jackson acted as scout for Gen. Otis when he went to the relief of Gen. Miles, then being on a detail along the Yellowstone River. Jackson also scouted for Gen. Miles when he was running down Lame Deer and his band. Jackson shot and killed Lame Deer, scalped him and afterward gave the scalp to Gen. Miles.

After the Indians had been driven into Canada. Jackson acted as a guide when Gen. Miles burned over a large territory along the northern boundary of the United States and drove south the buffalo so that the Indians were forced to surrender the following winter.

Deserved Compliments.

In the third annual announcement of the Dermott public and high school at Dermott, Ark., the board of directors have the following to say of a former resident of Ohio county, well known here:

Prof. U. C. Barnett was our Principal last year, and the character of his work was such as to lead to his unanimous re-election for another year. He has had about twelve years' experience in public school work, besides having experience as Conductor of Teachers' Normal Institutes. He is a college graduate, finishing his education at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., holds a Teachers' State Certificate in Kentucky, a Teachers' Professional License in Arkansas, and Instructors' and Conductors' Normal Institute Certificates in Oklahoma.

HARGIS HENCHMAN IS SHOT DOWN.

Two Men Tell Him They Are Ready to Kill Him and Fire
Three Bullets in Body.

Jackson, Ky., Aug. 23.—Three shots shortly after 9 o'clock last night ended the life of John Abner, well known throughout the mountains of Kentucky and notorious on account of his alleged connection with the murders of Dr. D. B. Cox, J. B. Marcum and Town Marshal James Cockrell.

Abner had only come to Jackson from his home during the afternoon, and was walking down the street toward the river bridge between the store of M. S. Crain and the "malt mead" stand of Govan Smith, accompanied by Barron Miller, one of his friends, when he was called to by two men from the gate of an adjoining yard.

Abner started to the men leaving Miller some twenty feet away and when in about ten feet of the gate he was told by the men they had come to kill him, and they fired three shots into Abner's body. Abner fell into the street and died instantly.

One of the shots took effect in the right lung and two in the left thigh. No one was about or near the place of the shooting except Miller and the men who did the shooting, and they made their escape without being observed by anyone. Miller did not recognize either of the men.

The spot is being carefully guarded until the bloodhounds arrive from Lexington, they having been wired for early this morning.

Abner had been accused of being one of the men employed to assassinate Dr. B. D. Cox, James Cockrell and James B. Marcum during the feud troubles eight years ago, but on each trial the jury disagreed and the charges were never pressed to conclusion.

Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee of the American Society of Equity met at this office Monday, four members being present. They went over the pooling pledges at present turned in and found that less than half the locals had sent in pledges. They are quite well satisfied with the showing however as the pledges do not close until the first day of October. They discussed the resolution of the recent session of the County Union providing that anyone might pool his tobacco without paying his dues if at the time he did so he executed an order to the chairman of the Finance Committee directing him to retain out of the proceeds of such person's tobacco the amount of his dues for the year. This resolution met with the unanimous approval of the committee and that are satisfied that if the people generally understand the purport of same a larger quantity of tobacco will be pooled this year than ever before. This is a move in the right direction and the County Union is to be commended for the liberality of its action.

The committee adjourned to meet in Hartford the first day of the next County Union which will be the 7th day of October at which time they hope to have before them for consideration pooling pledges of every local in the county.

ANONYMOUS COMMUNICATION

In Evangelists Audience
Created Great Commotion.

Is Conducting Revival at Island and Much Excitement is Raised Over Letter.

Island Ky., Aug. 22.—Quite a commotion was made here last night when Rev. H. E. Frost the sailor evangelist of Chicago who is conducting a series of meetings stated in the pulpit that he had received an anonymous letter making many unjust accusations against him and also against some of the members of The Living Cross of which Rev. Frost is author and promoter. Mr. Frost refuses to make public the exact words of the letter but says that there are more than enough threatening remarks and insinuations against the character of the minister and his associates to get the writer into serious trouble.

Rev. Frost says that he is positive that he knows the author of the cowardly letter and is investigating fully, and states that he will not hesitate to have the guilty person punished.

It is stated authoritatively by persons who are in position to know that this person has written serious charges which would lead to sentence in the penitentiary if it can positively be proven who did the work. Mr. Frost would not give the names of the persons whose reputations were defamed, saying that it would almost if not sure lead to bloodshed. Quite an excitement has been raised over the matter as The Living Cross work has been agitated here for several weeks. The outcome is awaited with great interest.

Rev. Frost, who will present The Living Cross work here Sept 2 to 9, is making arrangements to erect a large tent to accommodate the crowds. He first intended to use the large hall, but has decided that it will not be large enough. They will erect the tabernacle large enough to seat 900 or 1,000 people and it is anticipated that it will be well filled. The scenes require the aid of 100 or 150 persons to assist in the production of the work.

How Carlisle Missed the Presidency.

The recent death of John G. Carlisle, the most distinguished and brilliant Kentuckian in this generation, calls to mind how near he once came to being President of the United States.

He was Secretary of the Treasury under Cleveland's second term. It was during this term when the money question was the most vital political issue in the country. An interview appeared in a New York paper one morning in which Mr. Carlisle was quoted as saying that if greenback notes were presented to the treasury for redemption he would exercise the option, paying them in silver, if it suited the convenience of the treasury best, that this would be following out the policy of his predecessor, Hon. Daniel Manning, who was Secretary of the Treasury under Cleveland's first administration.

This was a vital position. The big rich people were drawing gold out of the treasury and forcing the Government to issue gold bonds to restore it, by means of greenback being presented to the treasury and gold demanded on them, although on their face it was stated that they were to be paid off in lawful money, and not necessarily in gold.

As soon as the New York papers reached Washington there was a Cabinet meeting and after that meeting Mr. Carlisle repudiated that interview. We have it from a lawyer in Louisville of high standing that Mr. Carlisle was forced by President Cleveland to either deny that interview or resign from the Cabinet. According to this lawyer Mr. Carlisle chose to remain in the Cabinet. Had he tendered his resignation and stood by that purported interview with the New York paper he would have been nominated for President at the Chicago Convention instead of Mr. Bryan who would likely have been nominated on the ticket with him as Vice President.

Carlisle would have been a power of strength to the party. He would have been strong where Bryan was weak. His conservatism and his distinguished services to the country as Speaker of the House and United States Senator would have kept many thousands of Democrats into the party who left it that year. There would have been no Palmer and Buckner ticket and practically no division in the Democratic ranks. The Chicago platform would have been made along more conservative lines and many of the things which drove Democrats away from the party in that famous race would have been conspicuous for their absence. We feel confident that Carlisle could have been elected President where Bryan failed.

Whether Mr. Carlisle gave out the interview referred to in this article, we only have hearsay evidence for Daniel Manning certainly took this position and it was not at all inconsistent with Mr. Carlisle's former record.—Elizabethtown News.

Saved From Awful Peril.

"I never felt so near my grave," writes Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, Ohio, R. R. No. 3, "as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 115 pounds in spite of many remedies and the best doctors. And that I am alive to-day is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 160 pounds and can work hard. It also cured my four children of Croup." Share of Women.

It has long been asserted that woman is less variable than man; but the certainty of that statement has lately lost its edge. It is probably untrue. There is no real reason to suppose that woman is less complex or less variable than man. She has the same title as he has to these conditions in which her particular characters, whatever they be, shall find their most complete and fruitful development. There is no more a single ideal type of woman than there is a single type of man. It takes all sorts even to make a sex. It has been in the past and always must be, a piece of gross presumption on man's part to say to woman, "Thou shalt thou be, and no other." Whom Nature has made different, man has no business to make or even to desire similar. The world wants all the powers of all the individuals of either sex.

On the other hand, no good can come of the attempt to distort the development of those powers or to seek conformity to any type. Much of the evil of the past has arisen from the limitation of women to practically one profession. Even should it be incomparably the best, in general, it is by no means necessarily the best, or even good at all, for every individual. Men are to be heard saying: "A woman ought to be a wife and mother." For most women, this is the sphere in which their characteristic potencies will find best and most useful expression, both for self and others; but that is very different from saying that every woman ought to be a mother; or that no woman ought to be a surgeon. We may prefer the maternal to the surgical type; and there may be good reason for our preference; but the surgeon may be very useful, and useful or not, the question is not one of ought. Thoughtful people should know better than to make this constant confusion between what ought to be and what is.

Let us hold to our ideals, let us by all means have our scale of values; but the first question in such a case as this is as to what is. In point of fact all women are not of the same type; and our expression of what ought to be is none other than the passing of a censure upon Nature for her deeds. We may know better than she or as has happened, we may know worse.—Dr. C. W. Salee, by in the Forum.

Of the High Cost of Living.

In a recent editorial in these columns on the cost of living the statement was made that "the Fifth Avenue and Broadway hotels make more profit off the sale of food than all the farmers of all the counties between New York and Albany." A comparison of market and restaurant prices printed in Collier's Weekly illustrates in detail the enormous appreciation in value which takes place in the transit of food from the farm to the hotel table.

The capon, for which the guest is charged $6, is worth $1.30 to the farmer and $2.10 to the marketman. For the six-pound planked steak served for $4 the retail dealer receives $1.38, the wholesale 99 cents the cattleman 48 cents. A portion of two lamb chops, worth 7 cents at wholesale and 3 cents on the hoof, costs the guest 50 cents. For a short pint of raspberries he pays the shipper's price for five pints. His $1.50 portion of asparagus could have been obtained in the market for 35 cents and from the farmer for 19 cents. A cucumber worth 21-2 cents increased to 30 cents by the time it reached the restaurant patron. Grapefruit appreciates more than 500 per cent. in transit, 800 if comparisons are made with prices at the docks. If farmers were paid for their potatoes at the rate charged on certain hotel bills of fare, they would receive $96 a bushel. The cost at a high-class restaurant of a single egg, transformed, it is true by the chef's art, equals the cost of a dozen in the market.

It is estimated that an entire beef carcass yields an average return to a Fifth Avenue restaurant of $1.50 a pound. The utter disproportion between the producer's and the hotel-keeper's profit from food is only a minor phase of the cost-of-living problem. But it affords a striking illustration of how under the present system of dealing in commodities the production of food has been made commercially the least important of all the processes it undergoes from the farm to the consumer.—New York World.

Japanese Weddings.

A Japanese wedding always takes place in the "sanctuary" which is to be found in every Japanese home—the "tokonoma," or elevated place of honor. This is decorated for the occasion with symbolic articles, such as pine, plum tree and bamboo, signifying long life, peace and honesty; rice, always offered to the gods, and the sake jugs from which the "butterflies" (bridesmaids) pour out drink for the happy couple.

Only ten persons are present at the marriage—the bride and groom, parents, the go-between and his wife and two "butterflies." The bride takes her place near the bridegroom, but, as befits her inferior state, on a lower level. Her veil conceals her face till the ceremony is completed.

Presently the "broker" (the man who has brought the couple together) makes formal announcement of the marriage, to the low-toned accompaniment of singers, without instrumental accompaniment in an adjoining room.

Ordinarily the Japanese wedding ceremony has neither religious nor legal formality; it is an affair of the family entirely. In former times, however, the priests took a large part in the function, and there are indications of a return to this custom. In 1900, for instance, at the marriage of the crown prince, a solemn Shinto service was held within the sanctuary of the Imperial palace. Usually, however, says the Wide World Magazine, the wedding ceremony is simply a formal drinking of sake by bride and bridegroom from the same cup. This partaking of the rice wine together is an act as solemn as drinking from the communion cup among Christians.

Presently the "butterflies" prepare to fulfill their office, and on bended knee present the two-spouted cup of sake to the months of the bride and bridegroom alternately, this drinking from one cup signifying their future unity in joy and sorrow. From each of three tiny cups of different sizes the bride and bridegroom each take three sips. After the third cup the "go-between" announces that the ceremony is ended. "Orion" and "Chrysanthemum" are now Mr. and Mrs. Tamura, and congratulations and feasting are the order of the day. The groom does not kiss his bride in public; that, in Japanese eyes, would be unpardonably coarse and vulgar.

Removing her white silk veil, the young wife rises from her seat beside the bridegroom and passes the wine cup to the assembled friends. Before the banquet she retires and reappears in a different dress, repeating this three or four times during the dinner, if she comes from a rich home. After the bride and bridegroom have taken their places everybody present approaches, bows to them and offers congratulations. With each guest the happy pair are supposed to drink a cup of wine, but this is only pretence.

The wedding feast itself is a splendid and costly affair, with rice served in countless different ways, oyster broth and many other elaborate dishes, washed down with hot and cold sake. But at last the guests take their leave and the young couple are left alone.

Must Pay Up.

Newspapers over the entire country have been recently given to understand that Uncle Sam's post office department meant business about two years ago when it said that all subscriptions in future must not be allowed to be in arrears over three months. Newspapers in Illinois are now being called on by the postal officials to send them a sworn list of their subscribers indicating how many mail subscribers in arrears over three months.

Not only have some received one notice, but a succession of them, follow up to insure the list being put in shape, and for the first time the newspaper publishers of all classes of periodicals, are made to realize that these rulings apply to them, as well as the cheap mail order journals the movement was first started against. The ruling means that a publisher is no longer able to give unlimited credit to his subscribers, but that subscribers paid up within the credit limit of three months, or have a written order to the effect that each subscriber expressly orders the paper implying promise to pay. If the publisher does not get his list in this shape he will be cited to appear at Washington to show cause why his second class postage rate should not be withdrawn, as was a recent Iowa publisher, along with several others.

All of the papers in central and northern Illinois have recently been notified to send in sworn statements, and several narrowly avoided serious trouble. The department is headed south, and rapidly as possible covering the whole nation.

The enforcement of this means a revolution in the conducting of a country newspaper, where credit was generally extended by publishers to their subscribers because he knew the subscribers would pay.—Earlington Bee.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for Stomach Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at all druggists.

The Folly in Iowa

In Iowa the politicians have made the most fuss over the so-called reign of higher prices. Yet of all the people, Iowa people have been most benefited. Three-fourths of the people of this state are farmers and the other one-fourth are more or less directly interested in farming.

All the products of the farm have brought high prices. Corn, 50 cents a bushel; and wheat a dollar a bushel; cattle, eight cents a pound, and hogs nine cents a pound and horses "out of sight." During these years the farmers have been able to sell anything they had at good prices. They have prospered as never before. They have paid off mortgages and they have bought automobiles. For the first time in the history of the state they have verily come into their own.

At the same time they have bought more sugar for a dollar, more kerosene for a quarter, and fence wire has been cheap. They have been buying shoes at practically the same prices and they can get just as good a suit of clothing for $12 or $20 as ever they bought if anything better made.

But the politicians have ranted against these conditions and ranted until they have almost brought things to a halt. These politicians have neither understood the people, nor have they tried to serve their interests—they have simply laid what they believed were the foundations for their own continuance in office.

But if the politicians succeed, the farmers will find that they will again be selling everything for less, while the things they buy will not vary much.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

In Fair Japan.

Miss Marie C. Stokes went to Japan with a definite object. Although young she is a geologist and she spent a year in exploring coal mines and collecting fossils, with which she combined visits to Japanese as well as European residents, dancing and dining and seeing the country.

She came into touch with every class, from the officials at Tokio, to peasants in wild places where no European woman had ever been seen. And she has written "A Journal from Japan." It is fresh and graphic, and gives a very real impression of the life of the country. Of the varied experiences it relates, some are delightful especially that of a perfectly ideal ruin on the cliff above a tiny bay. "I took a small room facing the sea, where the breakers dashed on to the cliffs, and found that, though inside the house, on one side it was open, because a big piece of cliff stuck right into the building. This gave a charming view of moss-grown rocks and a hollow stone with a lake in it lying between me and the next room.

The bathroom was also scooped out of the solid rock, and was a great vaultlike place. The beds were excellent, and the bill was 66 cents. On the other hand, one receives a disconcerting impression on hearing of a professor who, with his wife and children had settled into a new house, to be told that a leper had just died there—or the tendency of Japanese gentlemen to strip at inappropriate moments must be a trifle embarrassing till one becomes accustomed to it.

One Hundred Years and Over.

Ravens, according to several authentic records of these birds in France, given by Buffon, have considerably outlived the century mark.

The crow is said by Mont. beillard to exceed the century. Shakespeare calls this bird "the trebled-dated crow," evidently his allusion to his age being reckoned by three figures.

A parrot was brought from Italy to France in 1633, and Professor Schulze, of Göttingen, says that to his certain knowledge the bird was alive in 1743, and was, therefore, 110 years old.

A swan has lived more than a century according to Bacon. In Alkmaar, in Holland, a swan died in 1672, with a collar on its neck dated 1573.

A hawk was brought from the Cape of Good Hope to England in 1792, that when captured had a golden collar on it saying that the bird belonged to James I. and dated 1610, which would make the bird 182 years old.

Pike are described by Buffon, one as 100, and another as 125, years old. Carp are long-lived Gessler says that one lived in a pool in the Palatine more than a century.

The elephant was chosen by the early Romans as the symbol of eternity. According to Philostratus, the ancients credited the elephant with a life of 400 years. Blumenback says, "It is probable that the elephant will live 200 years." Tavernier deems the accounts received from elephant keepers in India as reliable, that reports of the sagacious creatures having been in captivity from 100 to 130 years.

A whale's years can not be accurately ascertained. But if judgment be made by the size and number of the laminae of whalebone that are believed to increase yearly, then some whales have certainly lived from 300 to 400 years. Curvier and other French naturalists came to the conclusion that the great whale that were exhibited in Trafalgar Square in London, in 1831, and that attracted thousands of visitors from the continent, was most surely from 900 to 1,000 years old.

The Boy Knew.

Dr. J. M. Buckley, the well-known editor and divine, addressing a New York City Sunday school, related an incident that greatly interested the children. He told of meeting a ragged hungry-looking little girl in the street on a wintry day, and when he questioned her she recited a pitiful tale of a sick mother and younger brothers and sisters without food. After giving her a silver dollar the good doctor followed at a safe distance to see what she would do with the money.

"Now, children what do you suppose was the first thing she bought with that dollar?" said Dr. Buckley. "Hands up!"

Up went the hands, and one child after another ventured a guess, but none proved correct. Finally a little boy whose upraised hand alone remained was asked for his answer to the question.

"A basket," he sang out. "Correct," said the doctor; there's a boy who thinks. Now, son come up here on the platform and tell us why you think it was a basket."

After considerable coaxing the boy reached the platform, but seemed unwilling to talk. "Go on," urged the doctor "I want these boys and girls to learn to think too."

The boy still hesitated and Dr. Buckley took from his pocket a silver quarter. "I'll give you this," he said, "if you'll tell us what makes you think the little girl bought a basket first."

"Be-be-cause," stammered the young star at last moved by the sight of the money, "I was over in Hoboken last Sunday and heard you tell the story there."—Harper's Magazine.

Worry Does Kill.

Modern science has brought to light nothing more curiously interesting than that worry will kill. More remarkable still it has been able to determine from recent discoveries just how worry does kill.

It is believed by many scientists who have followed carefully the growth of the science of brain disease that scores of the deaths set down to other causes are due to worry and that alone. The theory is a simple one, so simple that any one can readily understand it.

Briefly says the Journal of Physiological Therapeutics, it amounts to this: Worry injures beyond repair certain cells of the brain and the brain being the nutritive center of the body, the other organs become gradually injured and when some diseases of these organs or a combination of them arise death finally ensues.

Thus worry kills. Insidiously like many other diseases it creeps upon the brain in the form of a single constant, never-lost idea; and as a dropping of water over a period of years will wear a groove in the stone so does worry gradually imperceptibly and no less surely, destroy the brain cells that lead all the rest, which are so to speak the commanding officers of mental power, health and motion.

Worry to make the theory still stronger is an irritant at certain points which produces little harm if it comes at intervals or irregularly. Occasional worryment the brain can cope with but the iteration and the reiteration of one idea of a disquieting sort the cells of the brain are not proof against.

It is as if the skull were laid bare and the surface of the brain struck lightly with a hammer every few seconds with mechanical precision, with nerve a sign of a stop or the failure of a stroke. Just maddening thought that will not be done away with, strike or fall upon certain nerve cells, never ceasing, diminishing the vitality of the delicate organisms that are so minute that they can be seen only under the microscope.

WANTED—A RIDER AGENT IN EACH TOWN and district to ride and exhibit a sample latest model "Ranger" bicycle furnished by us. Our agents everywhere are making money fast. Write for full particulars and special offer at once.

NO MONEY REQUIRED until you receive and approve of your bicycle. We ship to anyone anywhere in the U. S. without a cent deposit in advance. Prepay freight, and put it to any test you wish. If you are then not perfectly satisfied or do not wish to keep the bicycle ship it back to us at our expense and you will not be out one cent.

FACTORY PRICES at one small profit above actual factory cost. You save $10 to $25 middlemen's profits by buying direct of us and have the manufacturer's guarantee behind your bicycle. DO NOT BUY a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone at any price until you receive our catalogues and learn our unheard of factory prices and remarkable special offers to rider agents.

YOU WILL BE ASTONISHED when you receive our beautiful catalogue and study our superb models at the wonderful low prices we make you this year. We sell the highest grade bicycles for less money than any other factory. We are satisfied with $1.00 profit above factory cost.

BICYCLE DEALERS, you can sell our bicycles under your own name plate at double our price. Orders filled the day received.

SECOND HAND BICYCLES. We do not regularly handle second hand bicycles, but usually have a number on hand taken in trade by our Chicago retail stores. These we clear out promptly at prices ranging from $3 to $20 a $10. Descriptive bargain lists mailed free.

COASTER-BRAKES, single wheels, imported roller chains and pedals, parts, repairs and equipment of all kinds at half the usual retail price.

$8.50 HEDGETHORN PUNCTURE-PROOF $4.80
SELF-HEALING TIRES A SAMPLE PAIR TO INTRODUCE, ONLY $4.80

The regular retail price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but to introduce we will sell you a sample pair for $4.80 each or $9.60 for a pair.

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES
NAILS, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have never been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.56 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. You run no risk in sending us an order as the tires may be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any kind at any price until you send for a pair of the special introductory price quoted above, or write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For Judge Court of Appeals.
JUDGE J. ALLEN DEAN.

Kansas was born kicking and probably will never get over the habit.

Someone wanted John D. Rockefeller to invest in an airship, but he said the EARTH was good enough for him.

The Tennessee Democratic Insurgents seem to be about as contrary as the Kansas or Iowa Republican Insurgents.

Mr. Bryan will probably not write up the "first battle of the County Option issue in Nebraska. He doubtless will prefer to forget it.

The state of Texas has announced Senator Bailey for President. Texas is the "Lone Star State," and is likely to be also the lone Bailey state.

It has been claimed that this is to be a Democratic year, however we notice that all the interest centers in the Republican primaries.

A man who forgets his friends and the favors they bestow is sooner or later bound to reap his bitter end. This is true in politics as well as everything else.

It has been several months since a northern magazine or newspaper ventured to slander Kentucky. A few more incidents like that which happened at Newark, State of Ohio, should be enough to make them forget that Kentucky was ever referred to as the "Dark and bloody ground."

The Hartford Herald never gets "sore" with any of its leaders. It meekly and supinely bows its knee to any and all of them. It is a well known fact that it contains not a particle of independence, when it comes to partisan matters. It will follow a goat as quickly as it will a sheep, provided it is labeled democracy.

It is the duty of every Republican in Ohio County to attend the mass convention at Hartford, Saturday September, 3rd, at which time delegates will be selected to attend the Lebanon convention to nominate a candidate for Congress in this district. Do not remain away from the convention and then complain that you had no voice either in the selection of your delegates or in the nomination.

Senator Gore has exonerated Vice President Sherman and Senator Curtis from the aspersions cast upon them by him in the Indian investigation matter. This is good in Senator Gore, but who is going to exonerate him for allowing his mouth to go off half cocked about a matter which he seems to have been mistaken and would have injured the reputations of two innocent men.

The Hartford Herald attempts to make somebody believe there is trouble between the editor of this paper and U. S. Marshall G. W. Long because of some reference in these columns to a letter which was read at a meeting of the Republican Appellate Court committee at Horse Branch. The Herald is wrong, as usual. The relations of the editor of this paper and Mr. Long are of the very best.

The editor of a newspaper must take a cheerful view of himself and his infallibility when he attempts to pick the mote out of his brother's eye, not discovering the beam in his own, by claiming that an accidental misspelled word, which passes the hands of a proof reader unnoticed is a much greater error than the mistake of printing 6 for "16" in his own journal, allowing it to pass through some allged proof readers hands unnoticed. The gift to see ourselves as others see us is a Heaven-born one.

The Hartford Herald says that this paper has discovered that there is a difference in ladies gloves; "some are made out of certain material and some out of other," etc. This is true, the editor of this paper long ago made this discovery, and we plead guilty. However, the editor of the Herald has never yet learned to read correctly two paragraphs in two different tariff acts, and he stands convicted of having attempted to deceive his readers by publishing two quotations from the Dingley law and attempting to palm them off on the public as a large increase in ladies and childrens gloves, attributing the higher rate given under one schedule, the first paragraph of which distinctly stated that it was of different material from the one quoted, giving lower rates. When in fact both schedules are in the Dingley bill and both in the Aldrich bill. Why not enlighten your readers concerning this matter, instead of attempting to laugh yourself out of court?

THE ANONYMOUS LETTER WRITER.

In another column of this paper will be found an article from Island, Ky., telling of the contemptible persecution resorted to against a minister of the gospel who has been holding a series of meetings at that place through the medium of the anonymous letter writer. This is a chance resorted to by only cowards of the lowest type. The person who would send through the mails an offensive communication to a fellow citizen, by disguising his handwriting and concealing the name is more contemptible than a snake, and would burn a house or commit murder just as quick, if assured that the object of his persecution would never know who did it, and that he was sure to escape the walls of the penitentiary, to which everyone lays him or herself liable whenever they send such a missive through the mails, which are handled by the United States.

It Was Revised Downward.

The Cedar Rapids Republican points out that during the first year of its operation the Payne law has increased imports of foreign goods to the tune of 200 millions of dollars. This means that about that amount of American goods were displaced on the American market. It would not be surprising if it should be found in a year or two that the new Tariff law makes too great concessions to foreign manufacturers. In the meantime, what becomes of the contention that the Tariff was not revised downward?—Manchester (Ia.) Press.

Politeness—A Business Asset.

"Politeness is a business asset at the command of every girl who must earn her own living," says Anna Steese Richardson in the September Woman's Home Companion. She may not be as expert with the typewriter, the sewing-machine or the drafting tools as her fellow-worker, but she can always hold her own when it comes to courtesy. She may not be able to wear as smart tailored suits and blouses as the girl at the next desk, but she can be just as polite or more so. She may lack the strong personality which is such a factor in scoring business success, but if she will cultivate politeness, the much coveted personality will develop. "You can say good-morning to the elevator starter, or the elevator operator, in a way that will make him say to a chum after you pass, There goes a lady, a real lady."

You can say good-morning to the little red-headed office-boy who puts down your time in a way that will make him say to the little cash-girl or messenger with whom he is always scrapping: Say, if you was like her, I'd marry you some day.

You can say good-morning to your employer in a way that will make him realize that you are a credit to his establishment, a womanly girl, not a human machine whose sole office is to turn out so many circulars a day.

"You can say good-morning and thank you and please as you go through your day's work, to the fresh young bookkeeper, to the tired young file clerk, to the irritable caller, to the man-in-search-of-a-job in the same simple, unaffected, sincere way, until politeness becomes a habit, and the drudgery of earning your own living is transformed into the joy of independence, and those among whom you work look for your coming with pleasure, which after all, is one of the rewards of living. We all love appreciation and politeness wins appreciation as the sun draws flowers from the earth."

In Loving Memory.

J. T. Rowe, who after suffering for two days, fell asleep in the arms of Jesus, August 4th. He leaves a broken hearted companion and ten children besides the grand children to mourn his loss. But we feel our loss is papa's gain for he was a God fearing and God serving man.

Weep not, dear mother and children, although the vacancy in our homes shall never more be filled, but only think that Pa's suffering is now over and he is with Jesus waiting to greet us on the judgment morn. Papa was 72 years old and loved by everyone who knew him. The large crowd of weeping friends and the beautiful flowers placed on his grave was evidence of the love they had for him. He will be greatly missed.

One of the Family.

MANDA.

Aug. 22.—The death angel has visited our community and claimed little Vera Keown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Keown. For several weeks little Vera lay sick while she had all the attention that loving hands could give and the attention of two good physicians, she gradually grew weaker until Saturday morning, August 20th, when the messenger said, Vera come home and stay with your sister that preceded her a few years ago. So we would say to the parents, sisters and brothers to sorrow not, Vera is at rest where there is no sickness or deaths. Live so as to meet her in the end, although it is hard to give her up.

Little Vera is over the river at home with her Savior and friends never to roam, where the golden gates are swinging, there with angel she is singing. Little Vera o're the river here below, O we miss you as we journey to and fro, but we hope in Heaven to meet you and greet you.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, our fellow member, Dr. J. T. Hardin, has recently sustained a bereavement in the untimely death of his brother.

Be it Resolved, First, That the Bostea Club extend to him our most heartfelt sympathy in this great sorrow, and commend him to the great comforter.

Second, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this club, a copy presented to our bereaved brother, and furnished to the local papers for publication.

The Issue is Protection.

That Senator Aldrich, the most stalwart of standpatters, is going into the hotbed of insurgency to meet the charges brought against him in that quarter and to uphold the Tariff law as it stands, is the boldest and most signal stroke of the campaign. Also, it gives a real dramatic touch to the attitudizing ensemble.

If Senator Bristow reckoned that a lifelong policy of ignoring "malicious and unjust attacks" would permit him to assail Senator Aldrich with impunity, the announcement that the Rhode Islander is to fight back this once, confronting his assailants in their own balliwick, must have made the Kansan gasp. He must make good his repeated assertions that Senator Aldrich framed the rubber and cotton schedules with the view to lining the pockets of himself and associates with tainted millions, or rest under the reproach that he challenged the probity of a colleague on unsupported testimony.

This shift in the situation means that an aggressive front, with Senator Aldrich pointing the way, is the stalwart plan of campaign. The issue is the Protection of American industries, and this is narrowed down to a few schedules. Upon other points of difference, the two wings of the party were brought together by the enactment of the Taft programme into law.

Prosperity on a lasting basis is ours through the workings of a system never once impaired except when the people saw fit to send its enemies to Washington with a mandate to make a "Tariff for revenue only." To show them the folly of repeating the mistake of 1892, is the task which Senator Aldrich now lends his voice and leadership.—Washington Post.

Ear Piercing; How it is Done.

Long ago it was little children, often infants, who had the ear pierced but since the revival of the earring as a fashion it is the grown-ups only who present themselves for the operation. There was once an idea that piercing the ear was good for the sight, and among the poorer classes a horrible method was to draw a thickish piece of worsted or soft cotton through the hole, usually made with a copper wire, and the removal of these bits of stuff made the wound jagged and irritated.

All this is, happily, a thing of the past, though many still risk the consequences of inserting rings of base metal instead of those of 18-karat gold which alone are really sanitary.

The perfect art of ear-piercing is possible only to the expert trained by much practice and deft use of his hands. Naturally it is not exactly cheap. What skillful operation is?

Many things have to be considered before the actual piercing is done. One essential is that the hole must be most exactly placed in each ear equal distant from the bottom of the lobe and from the face. The spot for the hole having been correctly determined, a cork is put at the back of the ear, and here a most important point has to be considered, as if not correctly and firmly held, the wire will go in a slanting instead of a direct line, which would cause the earring to fall out or tilt up. Another vast improvement upon original methods is the substitution of a jointless gold ring with ball fastener for the old jointed "sleeper." This, slightly oiled, can be moved painlessly backward and forward until the ear is perfectly healed, which should be in six weeks' time from the piercing.

Before the operation is performed, both the hands of the operator and the lobe of the lady's ear are well washed in boracic lotion. The instrument employed is of most delicate construction, consisting of a tiny tube, through which the wire is passed. After use this instrument is well boiled in antiseptic preparation in a little platinum saucer—such a one as we might expect to find in a fairy's kitchen, if the good people condescend to anything so material as food or cooking.

Really, there's no necessity for piercing, as there are plenty of screw earrings.

An Empress and Her Tea.

The late empress dowager of China was a great epicure in regard to her tea. To add to the flavor she used a curious flour mixture, equal parts of dried jasmine and honeysuckle. The honey in the flowers sweetened the tea ever so slightly and the blooms gave it a pungent taste, which the empress liked. The first leaves of the great plantations in China are always reserved for the imperial use.

A Hungarian Pompeii.

A dispatch from Budapest announces that a Hungarian archaeologist, M. Duday, in certain excavations which he was superintending near Zsibo, in Transylvania, has discovered the site of the ancient Roman city of Porolissum, and is enabled to reconstruct the town. The houses have resisted the ravages of time, being substantially built of brick and adjoining one another. The rooms are very small, but regular in form. M. Duday has also come upon the ancient theater, of great dimensions, which should give some idea of the size of the town. The archaeologist considers that Porolissum had a population of 30,000.

First Test of the Air Pump.

The first public test of the air pump was in 1654 by its inventor, Otto von Guericke, in the presence of Emperor Ferdinand of Germany. Guericke applied the carefully ground edges of metallic hemispheres, two feet in diameter, to each other. After exhausting the air by his apparatus he attached fifteen horses to each hemisphere. In vain did they attempt to separate them because of the enormous pressure of the atmosphere. The experiment was a great success.

Schoolboy Definitions.

Here are some definitions from the schoolroom: "A Jacobite is a man descended from Jacob." "Snoring is our breath meeting the air which is coming in our mouth." Woman Suffrage in Idaho.

The more enthusiastic advocates of woman suffrage seem to claim that when women shall have been given the right to vote, most, if not all, the evils of politics will speedily disappear says William E. Borah, United States senator from Idaho, in the Deliberator. The more earnest and distressed opponents of woman suffrage, on the other hand, insist that to extend the right of suffrage to woman, and thus beguile her into politics, would demoralize the home, give us coarse and mannish women, and perhaps disturb domestic tranquility, besides many minor evils to follow. As usual, the truth is to be found in the temperate zone which lies broad and tranquil between the extremes.

Woman suffrage will not eradicate all the evils of politics or guard wholly against all mistakes of government, but it will tend in that direction. Whatever is accomplished will be for the good and not the bad in politics. It will not make women less refined or less womanly. In fact, I think a seasonable "mud bath" of politics would perhaps have a cleansing and elevating influence upon the social life which prevails to such an extent in some of our social centers.

Idaho extended to her women the right to vote in the early days of her statehood. We do not become at all excited over the effect of woman suffrage in our state. But we do declare it to be our deliberate judgment that her presence in politics, armed with the power to enforce her demand, has been substantially and distinctively for the benefit of politics and society. It had aided materially in the securing of better laws along particular lines; especially has it tended to cleaner politics in particular and essential matters. Our women have not always been so active in politics as they should be, but it has been observed that when a moral question is up for consideration the majority vote of the women has been a power upon the right side.

THE UGLY LEOPARD

He Is a Cattle Thief and Even a Human Being Thief.

WORSE THAN LION OR TIGER.

Seizes Its Prey by the Throat and Clings With Its Claws Until It Breaks the Spine of Its Victim or Strangles It.

Less in size, but even more ferocious, the leopard has a worse character than the tiger or lion. Living mainly in trees and very nocturnal, this fierce and dangerous beast is less often seen than far rarer animals. It is widely spread over the world from the Cape of Good Hope to the Atlas mountains and from southern China to the Black sea, where it is sometimes met with in the Caucasus.

Any one who has frequented the zoo for any time must have noticed the difference in size and color between leopards from different parts of the world. On some the ground color is almost white, in others a clear nut brown. Others are jet black.

Wherever they live leopards are cattle thieves, sheep thieves, dog thieves and human being thieves. Though not formidable in appearance, they are immensely strong, and it is not unusual for them to turn man eater. Both in India and in Africa they have been known to set up in this line as deliberately as any tiger. They have four or five young at a birth. The cubs can be kept tame for some time and are amusing pets, but it is extremely dangerous to have them about.

In Hongkong an Englishman had a tame leopard. It was brought into the dining room by a coolie to be exhibited to the owner's guests. Excited by the smell of food, the leopard refused to go out when one of the women, who did not like his looks, asked that it be removed. The coolie took hold of its collar and began to haul it out. It seized him by the neck, bit it through and in a minute the coolie was dying, covered with blood, on the dining room floor.

The Chinese leopard ranges as far north as the Siberian tiger and, like the latter, seems to grow larger the farther north it is found. The color of these northern leopards is very pale, the spots are large and the fur is very long.

The natives of all countries are unanimous in declaring that the leopard is more dangerous than the lion or tiger. They have no fear of the lion, provided they are not hunting for it, for it will not attack unless provoked, but a leopard is never to be trusted.

In Africa a number of natives were firing the reeds along a stream. One of them, a boy, being thirsty and hot, stooped down to drink. He was immediately seized by a leopard. The boy's brother, with an admirable aim, hurled his spear at the leopard while the boy was in his jaws. The point separated the vertebrae of the neck, and the leopard fell stone dead. But the boy could not recover. The leopard's fangs had torn open his chest and injured the lungs. The latter were exposed to view through the cavity of the ribs. He died during the night.

Leopards are essentially tree living and nocturnal animals. Sleeping in trees or caves by day, they are seldom disturbed. They do an incredible amount of mischief among cattle, calves, sheep and dogs, being especially fond of killing and eating the latter. They seize their prey by the throat and cling with their claws until they succeed in breaking the spine or in strangling the victim. They have a habit of feeding on putrid flesh. This makes wounds inflicted by their teeth or claws liable to blood poisoning. Nothing in the way of prey comes amiss to them, from a cow in the pasture to a fowl up to roost.

In the great mountain ranges of central Asia the beautiful snow leopard is found. It is a large creature, with thick, woolly coat and a long tail like a fur boa. The color is white, clouded with beautiful gray, like that of an Angora cat. The edges of the cloudings and spots are marked with black or darker gray. The eyes are very large, bluish gray or smoke colored. It lives on the wild sheep, ibex and other mountain animals. In captivity it is far the tamest and gentlest of the large carnivora, not excepting the puma. Unlike the latter, it is a sleepy, quiet animal, like a domestic.

The West African leopard skin is more handsome than the Asiatic, the spots being very distinct and clear. He and she—they usually go in couples—are fond of hunting cantonments and around native towns, where they pick up a goat and sow and then a baby.

One night I was camped in a native town and after I had retired the natives, as was their custom, were sitting about a great fire asking my caravan all sorts of questions, for the African savage is the greatest gossip in the world. Suddenly a child's cry rang out, followed by a great clamor. Rushing out to discover the cause of alarm, I was informed that a leopard had stolen from the darkness and quick as a flash had grabbed a four-year-old child and made off with it. The child was seated in the midst of the grown men and women. The latter could only lament their loss. They knew it was useless to try to pursue the beast into the dense bush.

The leopard is so bold that even in daylight he will wander about a town or a white man's premises. It is not at all unusual to get a good shot at a leopard from a bungalow veranda or a mud hut door.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Literary Firsts and Seconds.

The youthful newspaper reporter who has visions of being a famous author is still wondering over the epigram made by a successful conferee when the latter noted his disappointment over the return of a manuscript. "I thought sure," said the reporter, with a sigh, "that that confounded story would sell. It's good stuff, if I did write it, and I am certainly surprised that it came back."

The successful writer grinned and then placed his hand on the other man's shoulder.

"My dear boy," he said, somewhat grimly, "there are only two stages in the life of a writer. One is when he is surprised at getting his stories back and the second when he is surprised at not getting them back. You're in the first; I'm in the second. And there you are."

But the reporter is still wondering.—Philadelphia Times.

Escorted Her Anyway.

While Robert Browning and his son Barrett were living alone in Florence the son gave one afternoon an exhibition of his new paintings in the family drawing room. To Mr. Browning was assigned the task of meeting the guests. Late in the afternoon, when the room was well filled, there appeared at the drawing room door a woman whose face was familiar. Yet Mr. Browning could not recall her name, and he judged from her appearance that she was not an invited guest.

There was embarrassment on both sides for a moment, and then the woman said eagerly: "Oh, please, Mr. Browning, I'm the cook. Mr. Barrett said as I was to come and see his pretty picture."

Whereupon Mr. Browning, offering his arm, showed her about the room with all the attention that he could have bestowed upon a reigning queen.

The Rat and the Bulbs.

According to the French naturalist De Parville, a gardener planted one afternoon 250 tulip bulbs on a terrace, and next morning he noticed that the ground had been disturbed and that the bulbs had all been taken away. He was confident that rats had done the work, and, taking a spade, he began to dig in the hope of discovering their nest. Soon he unearthed a large female rat, which he killed, and after digging a few more minutes he discovered an underground chamber lined with hay and leaves and connected by a corridor with two holes, which were evidently used as storehouses, for in them he found the 250 tulip bulbs. This was remarkable, but more remarkable was the fact that they were neatly arranged in two rows and that not one of them had been gnawed or otherwise injured.

The Rhodum Sidus.

An amusing story told by Hood describes how a country nurseryman made a large sum out of sales of a simple little flower which he sold under the name of the Rhodum sidus. This charming name proved quite an attraction to the ladies, and the flower became the rage of the season. It was one of those freaks of fashion for which there is no accounting. At length a botanist who found that the plant was not an uncommon weed requested to know where the nurseryman got the name from. He elicited the following reply: "I found this flower in the road beside us, so christened it the Rhodum sidus."

The Purist Lost a Sale.

"I've just happened to remember that my wife told me to get a tin pan that will go under the icebox. Have you any?"

"No, sir, but we have some that can be shoved under the icebox. Won't that do just as well?"

"I think not, young man. My wife is a bit particular about my getting the exact thing that she tells me to get. I presume I can find it at some other store. Good day, sir."—Chicago Tribune.

Horse Sense.

During a heavy downpour of rain an Irish farmer sent his boy to a distant field to bring home a horse. Some time elapsed, and the messenger returned without the horse.

Father—Didn't O send ye for the horse, ye gamoch? Is your head in your brogues?

Little Boy (drenched to the skin)—Sure, he was standin' in shelter as dry as ye loike. Bedad, he knows more than the two of us.

Too Empty.

Bonney (morning of the second day out)—Come, old boy, let's go out on deck. Breakfast won't be served for half an hour yet, and a brisk walk on an empty stomach will do you good.

Klabber (feebly trying to smile)—Take a walk on yours, if you like, happle. Mine is—entirely too empty.—Chicago Tribune.

In Art Circles.

"That picture is by an old master," the owner stated proudly.

"Umph, umph," commented the critical visitor. "What was he master of?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Advice.

She (after the embrace)—Oh, how dare you! You have offended me. What shall I do?

He—Er—why not "turn the other cheek?"—London Tatler.

What Did It Mean?

A notice board in a Scottish kirk once bore, it is said, the following amazing sentence: "This church is licensed for the solemnization of marriages!"

Listen to others, but do not blindly depend on them.

CLICK OF THE KEY

The Reading of Telegraph Messages by Sound.

STORY OF THE FIRST TRIAL.

A Lack of Tape Caused Alonzo B. Cornell to Attempt Interpreting the Morse Code by Ear—The Discovery That Abolished the Use of the Tape.

Ezra Cornell is known in history as the father of Cornell university, as one of the men who helped to build the first telegraph line and as an ardent organizer of telegraph systems in the early days, being instrumental in the formation of the now famous Western Union Telegraph company. His son, Alonzo B. Cornell, became ultimately vice president of the Western Union and governor of New York state—high commercial and political honors.

Yet he once confessed to me that he felt he should be credited with the additional honor of having made the discovery that telegraph messages could be read by ear, and he seemed to take more pride in his part in bringing this about than he did in any of his other achievements.

"I was trained as a telegraph operator," said Mr. Cornell in telling me the story. "I suppose I took to telegraphy naturally because of my father's deep and large interests in the then new mode of communication. Anyway, I learned the Morse key easily, and I was, in fact, very fond of telegraphing from both the practical and the scientific standpoints.

"One afternoon, sometime in the early fifties, when I was stationed at Albany, N. Y., there was an unusual rush of newspaper dispatches—I was in charge of the press key—and in the midst of the task of receiving them I found to my consternation that I was out of tape. Before taking my seat before the key I had neglected to replenish the tape reel.

"There was a bountiful supply of tape in the cellar of the building, but it was a long trip there—there were no elevators in those days—and I knew that to go there I would waste precious time. And there were those anxious newspaper men hanging over my shoulder.

"Suddenly, as I fished about mentally for the quickest way out of my dilemma, this thought popped into my head: 'You don't need any tape. Half the time you don't look at it when the dispatches are coming in before you write them out. You trust to your ears to tell what the instrument says. Why not do so now?' Instantly I determined to see whether or not I could take the dispatches by sound alone.

"I put my fingers on the key and broke in on New York, whence the dispatches were coming. 'Send rather slowly and very distinctly,' I asked the man at the other end of the wire. He at once began to do so—not without some curiosity as to my reason, I found out later.

"But I didn't think of that at the time, for I was glowing all over with the knowledge that I could write out the dispatches—and write them correctly, for they made sense—by simply listening to the sounds that the key made.

"Thus I continued taking the dispatches to the very end. Then the New York operator called me. 'What are you doing up there?' he asked. 'Why did you want me to send slowly and distinctly?'

"I answered that I had said goodbye to the telegraph tape forever and told him of the discovery I had made. He was immediately interested. 'Send me slowly and very distinctly fifteen or twenty words, and I'll see whether or not I can do the same thing,' he requested.

"I did so, full of confidence, and a little later there came to me this message: 'I've done it too. Some of the other boys say they can. I predict that within a month there won't be an inch of tape used in the New York office.'

"Years later," added Mr. Cornell, "I was told that about the time that I discovered for myself a new and revolutionary method of receiving telegraph messages the same method was also discovered by an operator in the main office in Pittsburgh. I have no doubt that this is true. Sooner or later the discovery was bound to be made not only in one, but several offices. But I have always felt that I was the first to make the discovery and should be credited with it in telegraphic history."—Boston Globe.

Watering the Horse.

It is allowable when a horse is hot to let him have three or four swallows of cool water, but no more. The few swallows will help cool him, and another limited drink may be given every few minutes for four or five times, after which he may drink his fill without danger. In careless or inexperienced hands, however, the only safe way is to let the horse stand for half an hour or more with no water until he is fairly cooled off.—Country Life in America.

Descriptive.

"The eye of a little miss was attracted by the sparkle of dew at early morning. 'Mamma,' she exclaimed, 'it's hotter'n I thought it was.'"

"What do you mean?"

"Look here; the grass is all covered with perspiration."—St. Louis Star.

Failures are with heroic minds the stepping stones to success.—Halliburton.

Submitted to the Touch.

"I suppose all of us have our little vanities," says James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago. "When I was a member of congress I was called out into the corridor by a stranger who asked, 'Is this Colonel James Hamilton Lewis?'

"Plain Mr. Lewis, at your service," I replied.

"Well, Mr. Lewis," he replied, 'I was so struck with a speech you made in the house last week that I went to the document room to get a copy for myself and for another friend. They charge five cents for a copy, and I haven't a cent of change. Can you let me have the money to buy two copies?'

"Now, I had not made any speech, and they do not charge five cents nor any cents at all in the document room; but I gave him the dime he wanted, and reproached myself afterward for my stinginess. Such an artist at flattery ought to have had a quarter, at least."—Chicago Record-Herald.

How Romans Took Their Food.

The Romans reclined at their banquets on couches, all supporting themselves on one elbow and eating with their fingers from dishes placed in the center of the table. Each was supplied with a napkin, and knives were used, though it does not appear that every one was supplied with one. Nothing, it would seem, could be more fatiguing than to partake of a repast in such an awkward posture or less conducive to neatness, it being almost impossible to keep the hands clean even with water supplied by the slaves or to prevent the food and wine from falling on the clothing and the draperies of the couch. This manner of eating disappeared during the dark ages so far as the couch was concerned, but the peculiarity of taking food with the fingers from a common dish continued afterward for more than 1,000 years.

He Wanted to Know.

There was a small crowd at the soda counter when a tall man rushed in and pushed an empty bottle over the drug clerk.

"Acid," he whispered, excitedly. "Ten cents' worth of acid, and quick!"

The soda water crowd began to sit up and take notice.

"What's he going to do with that acid?" demanded one.

"It's a secret," answered the drug clerk.

"Nothing unusual, I hope."

"Well, rather."

"What! You mean to say he is going to take that acid?"

"Oh, no! Listen. There is a silver wedding at his house tonight, and he is going to test the presents as fast as his friends bring them in."

And then and there they voted him the meanest man in town.—Chicago News.

The Inspiring Bagpipes.

It was at a seaside resort, and along the board walk came marching a band of highland bagpipers in full costume. They were tremendous fellows, but their music, to my untutored ears, was like the squealings of forty stuck pigs. Yet I have never heard strains to compare with theirs for arousing a desire to die for one's country. I think bagpipe music must have been fashioned back in the old days by some demon of perversity out of the whistle of arrows, the clash of claymores, the neighing of war steeds and the shrieks of the dying. When I hear it I think of the wheel of fortune, the car of Juggernaut, the mills of the gods and the inquisitorial rack and screw. It whirls along with a cyclonic rhythm that sets the feet to tramping and the blood to boiling.—Robert M. Gay in Atlantic.

A Scandal Spoiled.

"Of course he and his wife seem devoted to each other now," said the jealous Miss Gauslip, "but do you think she will always be so true and all that?"

"Well," replied Miss Kidder, "I have reason to know that only last night he had occasion to set a trap for her."

"Ah! Do you know, I suspected something!"

"They more than suspected. They knew there were mice in the house."—Philadelphia Press.

The Lamp of a Man's Life.

Dr. Holmes said the lamp of a man's life has three wicks—brain, blood and breath—and to turn down any one of them makes the other two go out. The wick of a man will survive and even disregard so long as his head, heart and lungs are unharmed but long been one of the wonders of war history.

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, subdues inflammation, heals ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps.

GREAT EVENT NEAR

Kentucky State Fair Preparations Go Merrily On.

THOUSANDS IN PREMIUMS

Ample Accommodations Offered Both Exhibitors and Visitors During Week of Sept. 12th to 17th.

Liberal Excursion Rates Will Prevail Throughout Territory Surrounding Louisville.

With an investment of approximately $300,000 in buildings and grounds, and a record of seven successful annual exhibitions before it, the Kentucky State Fair of 1910 will begin in Louisville on September 12, and continue throughout the week. The bright promise is given that the trustees will click this year on one of the greatest State Fairs in America. Hard and unceasing work on the part of the Board of Managers, the Fair officials, and employees, for many weeks past, is rapidly bringing to completion the plans and arrangements for the exhibition.

While no new buildings have been erected since last year's Fair, there will be ample accommodations for exhibitors and visitors. Nature has worked wonders in the beautiful 150-acre plot occupied as a fair site, and the Kentucky show is rapidly gaining distinction as the most beautiful State Fair in America. Under the landscape gardener's care, the grounds have been adorned with shrubs, new walks and avenues have been laid out, and the trees planted when the site was first selected now have grown to shade-producing proportions. The system of illumination has been extended so that every nook and corner of the grounds will be brilliantly lighted each night of the show week. Those who have watched the progress of work on this year's exhibition venture the opinion that the attendance, which last year reached high water mark, will this year be increased by thousands.

Cash prizes aggregating about $30,000 have been hung up in premiums for the 1910 fair. In many instances the prizes have been increased over former years, and many additional classifications have been made. More attractive than ever will be the "special prizes," which this year will aggregate between $5,000 and $10,000.

Aside from the thousands of dollars received in cash by exhibitors, there comes, however, a yet greater prize—the distinction of an award from the Kentucky State Fair. The sentimental and exploiting value of such an award has now grown until it is one of the most coveted prizes sought for by professional exhibitors in the country's largest agricultural exhibitions. It is not possible to put a correct valuation on the prestige and distinction that accompany a prize from the state fair of a commonwealth recognized as the head of the horse world, as one of the foremost live stock states and as an agricultural community with few superiors in the union.

As heretofore, liberal excursion rates from a wide territory surrounding Louisville will prevail on railroad and steamboat lines throughout the fair period. Every local arrangement has been made for the quick and safe handling of the crowds, and ample accommodations at reasonable rates are assured to all visitors to Louisville during State Fair week.

SPECIAL PRIZES AT STATE FAIR.
Long List of Valuable Premiums to Attract Exhibitors.

Special prizes of extreme attractiveness and of intrinsic value aggregating more than $5,000 will be awarded at the Kentucky State Fair during the week of September 12-18. These premiums are distinct from the $30,000 in premiums offered directly under the management of the fair, and cover a variety of honors which will be greatly sought after by exhibitors.

The long list of special premiums announced up to date includes the following: "Highland Home" Cup, donated by Gay Bros., of Pisgah, for best and finest saddle bred foal of 1910; American Saddle Horse Breeders' Association trophy for registered stallion or mare three years old or under; the Montgomery Chief Special of $125 for the finest and best stallion, mare or gelding, any age, by Montgomery Chief, offered by Ball Bros., Versailles; the Commissioner of Agriculture Saddle horse Stake, valued at $500 for best five-gaited saddle stallion, mare or gelding, three years old or over; the Hayes' Cup, offered by W. P. Hayes, of Bloomfield, for the best herd of Jack stock; the American Berkshire Swine Association grand silver trophy for best young herd of Berkshires exhibited by a Kentucky breeder; loving cup, valued at $50, offered by Mrs. J. W. Henning, Shelbyville, for four best Jersey cows in milk exhibited by one Kentucky owner; prizes aggregating $150 offered by the Red Poll Cattle Club of America; prizes aggregating $400 offered by Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin for leading standard varieties of poultry; specials by the South-down, Hampton and Oxford Sheep Record Association for respective exhibits of pure bred sheep; the American Jersey Cattle Club for the first time offers four prizes, including gold medals, total value $150; a special offered by the American Angora Goat Breeders' Association for the best flock of Angora kids; the American Duroc Jersey Swine Breeders' Association offers $50 in special prizes; a sweep stake prize of $50 for the best general collection of vegetables is hung up by the Jos. Denunzio Fruit Company, of Louisville; the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association and American Hereford Cattle Breeders' Association each donates $750 as a special prize for pure bred cattle of the respective breeds, one-half to go in open competition and one-half to cattle owned by Kentucky exhibitors; these liberal prizes are augmented by $1,000 in regular premiums set aside for these breeds by the state fair management; a special prize of $100 for Polled Durhams offered by the Polled Durham Association of America; the American Aberdeen Angus Breeders' Association offers $200 in specials; Holstein-Friesian Association of America offers $100 in specials; the Louisville florists will present a loving cup to the exhibitor of the best floral design; H. F. Hillenmeyer & Sons, of Lexington, offer $25 for the best exhibit of fruit grown from stock obtained from their nurseries.

In addition to the specials mentioned there is the much coveted prize of $100 offered by the Commissioner of Agriculture for the best and largest display of farm, garden and orchard produce from any one county. This offer last year resulted in an exhibit of great interest, and it is understood the number of counties competing this year will probably be doubled.

MODEL SCHOOL AT STATE FAIR
Practical Exhibit Promised as Result of Efforts of Kentucky Women.

The people of Kentucky have grown to look upon their annual state fair as one of the greatest educational institutions in the commonwealth. Many evidences of practical development and enlargement along live stock and agricultural lines are traceable directly to these annual exhibitions. A departure specifically along educational channels will be made at the approaching eighth annual state fair, which will be held in Louisville Sept. 12-17.

A model rural school building will be erected and maintained and the enterprise is to be fostered and carried out entirely by the women of Kentucky. This important work is in the hands of the Ladies' Auxiliary Advisory Board. This board was recently appointed, and consists of the following members: Mrs. James A. Leech, Louisville; Mrs. James A. Mitchell, Bowling Green; Mrs. Charles P. Weaver, Louisville; Mrs. John B. Castleman, Louisville; Mrs. John A. Stratton, Louisville; Mrs. John H. Miller, Valley Station, and Miss Laura Clay, Richmond.

With the aid of Secretary J. W. Newman of the state fair, and Prof. Ellsworth Regenstein, superintendent of public instruction, the work has been pushed rapidly, and the model schoolhouse will be erected prior to the fair and will be found complete in every detail when visitors begin to assemble on the first morning. As the state fair draws visitors from every section of Kentucky, this movement is considered one of the most important ever undertaken by a similar institution in this or any other state.

The members of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and all women's organizations of the state have undertaken a campaign for funds, and early reports indicate that they are meeting with success. Both inside and out, the proposed school building will be a model in every particular.

Collie Dogs on Parade.

The exhibit of collie dogs at the Kentucky State Fair, which will begin in Louisville on September 12, will be a particularly pleasing one. Already the list of entries is large, and the prizes are the best ever offered. The rules of the American Kennel Club will govern the collie dog show, and these rules may be had on application to Secretary J. W. Newman, Louisville, Ky.

For catalogue, entry blanks or any other information regarding the Kentucky State Fair, address J. W. Newman, secretary, 320 Paul Jones Building, Louisville, Ky.

Sale in Bankruptcy.

In the district court of the United States, for the western district of Kentucky, Owensboro Division.

In the matter of Zachariah Wayne Griffin, Bankrupt.

Pursuant to an order entered in the above styled proceeding, on the 22nd day of August, A. D., 1910, directing a sale of the property hereinafter described, I, as Trustee of said estate, will on the 19th, day of September, A. D., 1910, at one o'clock p. m., at the drug store known as the Griffin Drug Store, in Hartford, Kentucky, offer for sale at public auction, to the highest and best bidder, the following described property:

Said property consists of real and personal property as follows:

1. A brick business house and lot on Center street in Hartford, Ky., more particularly described as follows: Being a part of lot No. 50, beginning at Fred Woerner's N. E. corner on Fox Alley (Now Center street;) thence N. 2. with Center street 20 feet to W. C. Chapman's corner (now Barnett & Smith's corner;) thence N. W. 75 feet; thence S. W. 25 feet; thence S. E. 75 feet to the beginning, and being the same property conveyed to Sallie T. Griffin by Z. W. Griffin, Sr., on January 30th, 1879, by deed recorded in the office of the Clerk of the Ohio County Court in Deed Book No. 1, page 108, and inherited by the bankrupt from the said Sallie T. Griffin.

Also another parcel of ground adjoining the foregoing, and beginning at the N. W. corner of the foregoing lot, and in the line of the Barnett & Smith lot; thence N. W. 31 feet to corner of Barnett & Smith's lot; thence N. E. with their 25 feet to Apple Alley; thence N. W. with Apple Alley 11 feet to the corner of the lot formerly owned by the Union Church; thence S. W. with the line of said church lot and lot sold by I. Morton to W. H. Miller 85 feet to line of lot No. 49; thence with a line of said lot S. E. 42 feet to a lot now owned by Barnett; thence N. E. with the line of said lot, L. F. Woerner and the foregoing lot 60 feet to the beginning, and being same property conveyed to Sallie T. Griffin as above stated, and inherited by the said bankrupt from the said Sallie T. Griffin, his moth. Both together appraised at $3,300.00.

2. One stock of drugs, druggist's sundries, toilet article, paints and other merchandise and the old prescriptions and including the fixtures and everything in the drug store except the soda fountain and the appurtenances belonging thereto, such as tables, chairs, refrigerator, charging apparatus, &c; appraised at $2,662.02.

3. Soda fountain and its appurtenances, including tables, chairs, refrigerator, charging apparatus glasses, &c; appraised at $647.25.

4. One lot of accounts, appraised at $200.00; one lot of notes, appraised at $108.00; one share in Hartford Tobacco Warehouse Company stock, appraised at $35.00; these to be sold in separate items, and for cash.

The Trustee will first offer property described in 1, 2 and 3 separately; he will then offer 2 and 3 together; he will then offer 1, 2 and 3 together, and accept the method bringing the most money.

All of said property except that described in 4 will be sold one-third cash, one-third due in six months, and one-third due in twelve months, the purchasers to be required to execute bonds with good security for the deferred payments, bearing interest from the date of sale, and payable to the Trustee, with lien retained on the property as additional security.

All of said property will be sold free of liens.

This August 23rd, A. D., 1910.
